According to the new law signed by the Governor, "It is the intent of the Legislature by enacting this section to ensure that, by extending the liability of gun owners to cover misuse of their guns, they will be less likely to negligently misuse them." The law also prohibits a gun owner from using a gun if he or she has had too much to drink. Nevada legislators felt that the current gun law in Nevada lacked some type of responsibility for gun owners; thus, they passed this new law. In the eyes of some, this seems to be a step in the right direction towards making gun use safer. It is important to consider, however, the 'right' of a person to own a gun. There is no question that the right to own a gun is a great one. There is, however, the potential to misuse a gun for the purposes of killing. By extending the "liability of gun owners to cover misuse of their guns, they will be less likely to negligently misuse them", legislators are attempting to limit the misuse of the right to own a gun by attaching liability to negligent misuse. Guns are dangerous, and misuse of guns has resulted in the deaths of many in this country. So how has the Senate recently taken steps to limit the misuse of guns? The Senate voted 40-3 in favor of gun control measures earlier this week. Senator Mark Manendo, R-Daggett introduced the bills, Senate Bill 795 and House Bill 898. The Senate bills are aimed at limiting the size of ammunition magazines and the number of round a magazine can hold and authorizing a court to order the owner of a gun to surrender the weapon to the police. The bills must be passed in the House to become law. The NRA has voiced disapproval of the Senate bills, arguing that the measures will not have the effect of reducing violent crimes. The United States experienced heavy gun violence in the wake of the Sandy Hook Elementary School shooting in December of last year. The massacre in Newtown, CT involved an AR-15 rifle and a.223 caliber ammunition magazine. The magazine was a 20-round model that allowed the shooter to fire between 400 and 800 rounds per minute. The Senate bills are not aimed at stopping gun violence. Gun f678ea9f9e
